FAIRFAX COUNTY COURT.

(Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette) MARCH 21st, 1867.—Notwithstanding that over the head of civil Virginia hangs the sword of a military ruler, and every right a citizen of the "Old Domidion" once boasted of is at the mercy of his will, and our only consolation is in the fact that he who holds that sword is a highminded gentleman as well as soldier, a Court of Civil Jurisdiction actually has been sitting here for three days, and a Grand Jury has presumed to discharge its functions.

It is hardly worth while to detail to you their proceedings. Several indictments were found for assault and petit larceny, and two negroes were tried and fined $10 each for committing city of Alexandria, to execute the said decree. the former misdemeanor. But a few civil cases were tried, the weather being so bad as to prevent parties from attending Court. In fact, the year seems to have gone back and taken a fresh start.

The would be-Mayor of Alexandria and our so called Commonwealth's Attorney, has found food to batten on in some of the verdicts that have been rendered, and has (report says) gone in hot haste to Richmond to lay his distorted statement before Gen. Schofield. This is not surface of society by convulsions such as we have seen for the last five years, and it is to the depths to which they belong.

Tucker's hand is shown, but I promise you, if aught is done by him to injure and oppress that people whose protector his office requires him to be, but whom |* * * * |. I will give the public a true account of these verdicts, &c., which will show him a thing or two he ought

[From the New York World.] The publication by the World of the "Chigthe London Lancet, showing that in every tee Administrator of John McNair, deceased, waterfall not composed of the natural hair of the wearer, (and possibly in cases even where the hair is natural,) there are millions of parasitic gregarines, has called out numerous communications on the subject, all lively and the following:

Sir: You and the scientific writer in the London Lancet are both in error in speaking of the parasites in the "chignons" as pediculi or burlakes or gregarines. They are merely animalculæ, thousands of which may be seen would be manifest in a "waterfall."

Yours respectfully, Sir: As one of the preservers of the public peace, I deem it my duty to allay the excitement growing out of the "chignon horror," by Item, a piece of an old buffalo robe; item, a a zouave uniform jacket; the whole enclosed in an old copy of the Tritune, containing that article on "Kansas," and covered with hair. Not even the "gregarines" could stand this collection of chignon compounds, for there were none visible either to microscopic examination or to the eaked eye.
